ESOL in the workplace

Currently delivered online these courses have proved popular and successful over many years. They are relevant and beneficial to learners in all industry sectors. WEA has developed a reputation for pioneering work in this area and delivering best practice. Working closely with the union and employer to pinpoint the key language and communication skills required in each workplace we tailor the learning accordingly.

Participants report improved communication skills and increased confidence and wellbeing. Workplace ESOL courses also impact positively on non-native speakers integration in and out of the workplace and overall productivity.
